Language Is More Than What I Speak

This powerful session explores the interconnection of language and identity and how both can be positively and negatively impacted by schools. Participants are fully engaged by sharing and reflecting on their personal experiences. This exploration of language stories paves the way for more inclusive and culturally-sustaining learning environments and deeper, more collaborative implementation of effective multilingual education programs.

What's In a Name?

This interactive session inspires participants to improve learning environments and organizational climate by focusing on honoring and respecting names. Names have a deep connection to cultural, linguistic, and familial identity. Reversing the damaging practices of misspelling, mispronouncing, and changing students' and staff members' names must be a priority for any district pursuing equity. This session is a powerful team-builder for new or established groups.

Multilingual Education

We can customize a presentation regarding the purposes and practices of effective bilingual and ESL programs, such as dual language, content-based language instruction, and newcomer support. Audiences include campus level, district level, or families.

Powerful session with @david_kauffman about the importance of names and its connection to identity. Your name often paints a personal story about family, struggles, resilience, language, culture, and the concept of self. Excelente @SAAABEofTexas @OliviaHdzC
